

WHAT IS ANIONS ?

What are Anions(Negative ions)?

Ions are all around us. They're electrically charged atoms, carrying either a positive or negative charge. Negative ions (Anions) are required to sustain life. They have strong absorption capability to absorb micro particles in the air to remove dust and bacteria. Anions in the air are as important as vitamins in the food and are given such nice names as 'vitamin of the air', 'longevity element', 'air scavenger' etc. When humans lack access to negative ions, body chemistry changes – changes that lead to bouts of depression, physical fatigue and anxiety.

Love Moon sanitary pads contain anion chips

After many years of research, Winalite International has successfully developed “Love Moon’ sanitary pads” which are embraced and recognized globally.

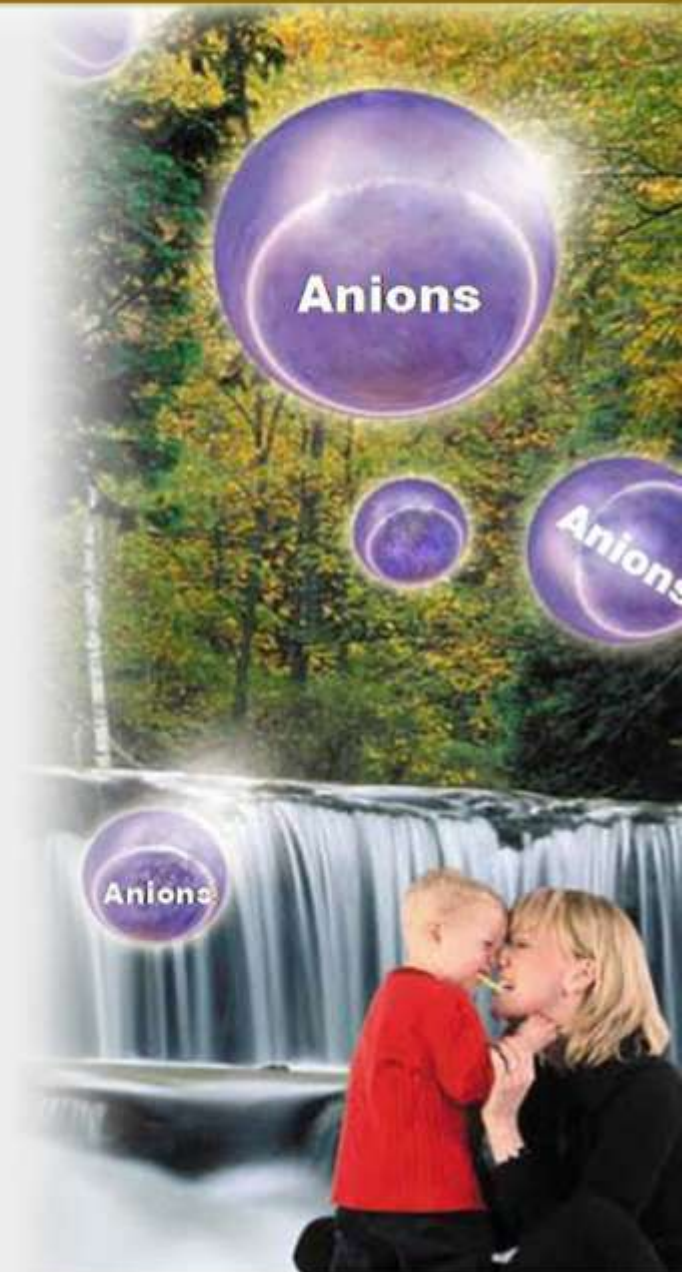

WHAT IS ANIONS ?

More anions in the air would mean fewer bacteria and when the concentration of anions reaches a certain level, the number of bacteria would be reduced to zero.

The number of anions in a cubic centimeter (cc) of air is 40 to 50 in the urban residential area, 100 to 200 above the urban area, 700 to 1,000 in the field and more than 5,000 in the valley. The number of anions in the air can impact on human health. If the air has too high a content of positive ions and too few anions, then the human body may develop symptoms such as fatigue, dizziness, migraine, depression and shortness of breath, but these could be rapidly relieved if air with 1,200 anions per cc is taken in by the body. If the anion content of indoor air is raised to 1,500 per cc, it can improve the mood of those who stay in the room so that they can work better with higher efficiency. Therefore, anion content is an essential factor for human health and longevity.

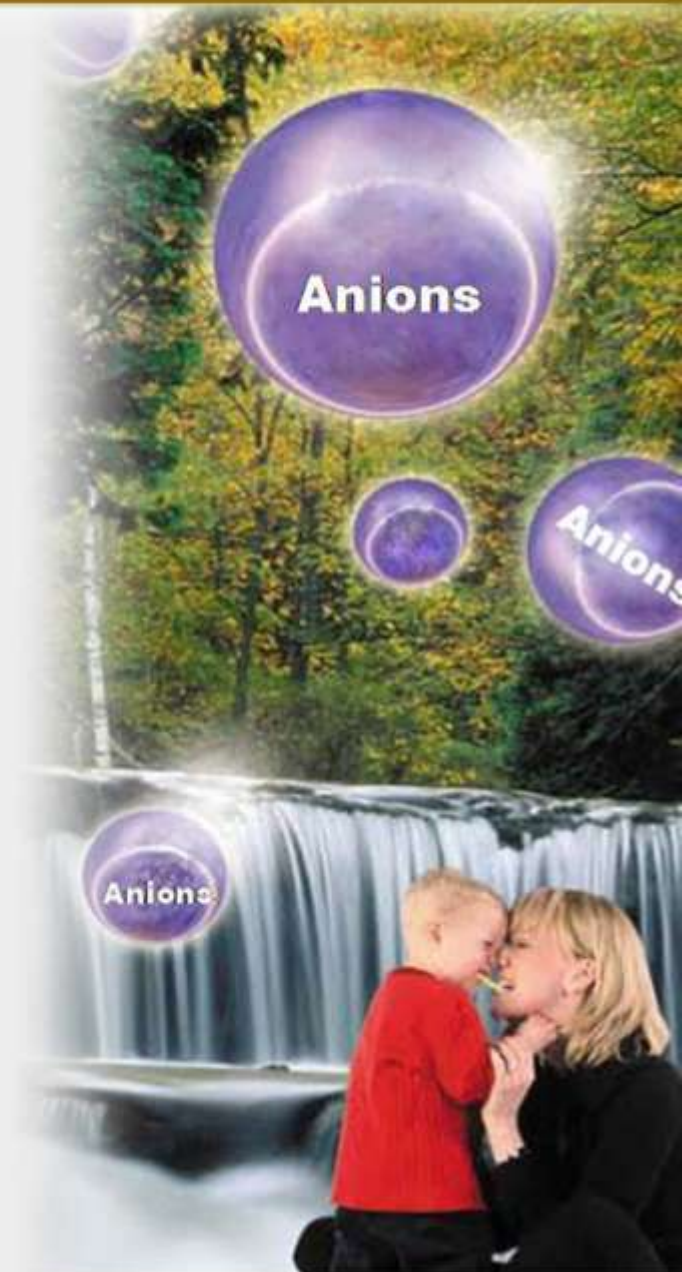

WHAT IS ANIONS ?

The World Health Organization (WHO) has specified that the anion content in the air should not be lower than 1,000 per cc. In certain types of environment (such as the mountainous area), the inhabitants are free from troubles of inflammation and generally live longer. This is obviously related to the fact that the air there contains abundant anions.

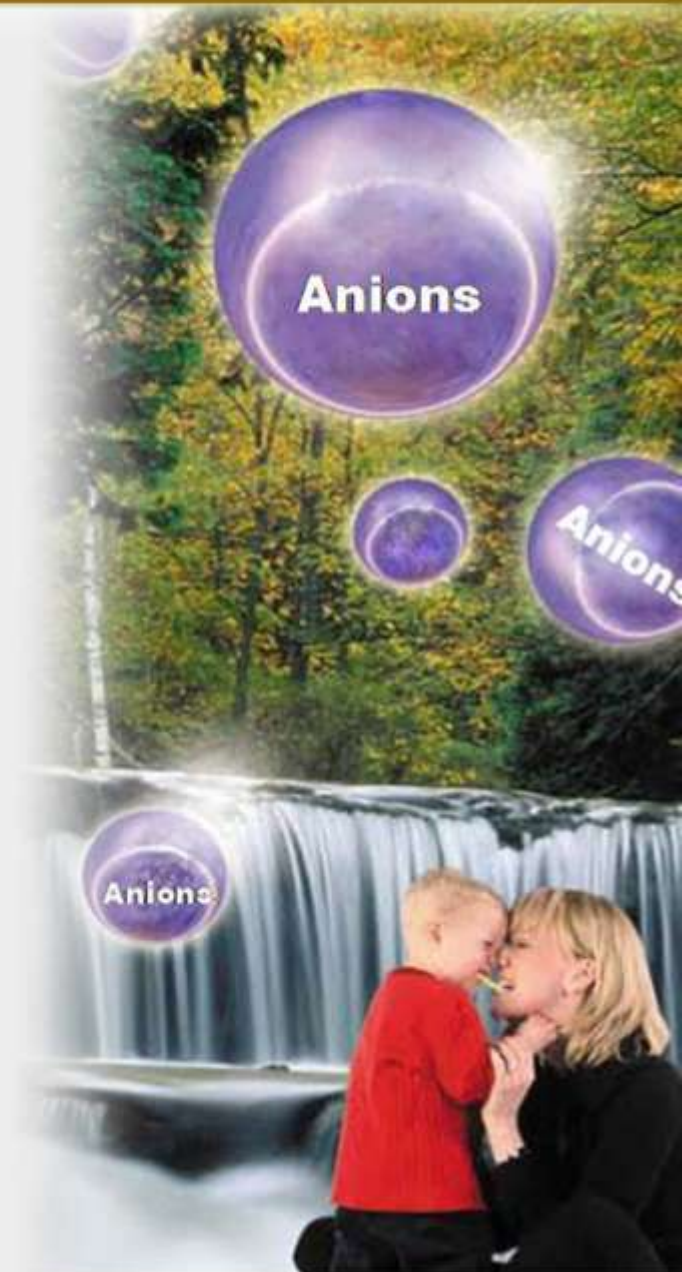

After many years of research, Winalite Technology Co. Limited of Shenzhen had successfully developed the healthcare sanitary napkin to turn this ordinary product into one with high value added and high-tech content, making it possible to be granted national patents. The anionic tape in 'Love Moon' sanitary napkin can emit 6,070 anions per cc to effectively inhibit the survival and duplication of bacteria and virus, which are the causes of vaginitis. Almost all types of female genital inflammation are caused by anaerobic bacteria.

WHAT IS ANIONS ?

When the anionic tape in 'Love Moon' sanitary napkin emits high density of anions, it also produces abundant ionized oxygen to fundamentally change the anaerobic environment, promote biological enzymic transformation and balance the acidity and alkalinity. At the same time, under normal temperature, it can emit biological magnetic wave of wavelength 4 to 14 micron at more than 90% emission rate which is beneficial to the human body as it can activate the water molecules in the cells to make them exist at high energy level suitable for synthesis of biological enzymes. This is therefore a purely physical process to achieve the antibacterial and deodorization functions, to care for the woman's health through technology and to benefit all women.

THE BENEFIT OF ANION

•For Respiratory System

Improves lung function. The lung is able to inhale 20% more oxygen 30 minutes after anion intake.

•For Cardiovascular System

Reduces blood pressure significantly, improves cardiac muscle function and nutrition, facilitates the dilation of capillary vessel and the rise of skin temperature.

•For Nerve System

Energizes the entire body, improves sleep quality, eases pain and tension.

•For Metabolism

Activates various enzymes in body, reduces blood sugar and cholesterol level, raises blood calcium level and urine amount, increases the amount of nitrogen and creatinine in urine, accelerates bone growth, prevents scurvy, rachitic and vitamin insufficiency.

•For immune system

Improves body reactivity, activates reticuloendothelial system and enhances disease resistance.
